

The Temptations of Jesus

“For we have not a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sinning” (Heb 4:15). This passage in Hebrews lays out the importance of the gospel that we hear this weekend. We hear of Jesus’ temptations in the desert, and we can be tricked into thinking that these temptations were nothing for him since he is fully God. However, Jesus faced and triumphed over all the temptations in the desert with his human intellect and will. This is crucial for our faith and hope because if he can triumph over sin and temptation, we can too.

For brevity’s sake, we will focus on the third temptation. This temptation is the most brash of all, for where the others subtly tempt Jesus to turn away from the Father. In the last temptation, the evil one calls for blatant idolatry. He asks that Jesus worship him in place of God. What the devil offers to Jesus is also very bold. When he offers him all the kingdoms of the world in their glory, he is offering to Jesus a way to avoid the cross. When the Lord became incarnate, he set aside his glory as God to become man. He will be glorified only in going through his passion, death, and resurrection. The devil is offering Jesus a shortcut, if you will, so that he could receive his glory and honor without the cross. How much easier that would seem; yet Jesus firmly rejects that temptation as well because he came to do the Father’s will. That shortcut is a brazen lie!

As we enter this season of Lent, we voluntarily take on these penances of prayer fasting and almsgiving to strengthen our will to reject the temptations that we face. Because the truth for me and for you is that we give in to our favorite sins not only because we are weak, but also because we like those sins. We give in because we want a shortcut past the cross, and to escape the place where things are uncomfortable. The last line of the gospel also shows that after the last temptation, “angels came and ministered to him.” So, when we are struggling to keep our Lenten disciplines, if we just hold out for a little bit longer, then our Father will bring us relief. If we have failed to keep our disciplines, then we get up and begin once again. For Jesus will always give us the grace to triumph over sin.
